K. N. Toosi University of Technology

Khajeh Nasir Toosi University of Technology, also known as K. N. Toosi University of Technology (KNTU), is located in Tehran, Iran, named after Nasir al-Din al-Tusi (1201-1274 A.D) who was a pioneer Iranian polymath, architect, philosopher, physician and scientist. The university is considered as one of the most prestigious institutions of higher education in Iran. K. N. Toosi University of Technology boasts one of the highest instructors to student ratios in Iran. This individual attention from expert instructors, most of whom are as experienced in the industry as they are academically, has attracted some of the country's most talented students to KNTU. Consequently, the university is known for its excellent track record of research output and industrial connections. KNTU was founded in 1928 and is considered as a high rank university nationally and internationally. It is also considered as the first technical university in Iran
